He has represented various corporations and individuals in a broad range of industries, including financial services, sports, fashion, cosmetics, entertainment, transportation, pharmaceuticals, and online services. A significant portion of Mr. Hogan's practice involves computer, Internet, and new media-related issues. He has represented and counseled a wide variety of companies on these issues, whether they are Internet-focused companies or traditional brick-and-mortar companies. Many of the matters have tested the application of traditional legal principles to the Internet and new media, such as in connection with issues of Internet jurisdiction, online contracting, and the application of trademark and copyright law to search engines, social media, and online sales. He also regularly counsels clients in connection with the application of privacy law to online commercial activities and data breaches and has assisted clients with several substantial trade secrets and information security matters.

Mr. Hogan is a frequent lecturer and writer on IP and technology-related issues. For example, he is the co-author, with Gibson Dunn partner Jennifer Bellah Maguire, of Fashion Law and Business: Brands and Retailers, a treatise published by the Practising Law Institute and updated in 2019. He is also author of the trademark and domain name chapters of the treatise, Intellectual Property Law in Cyberspace, published by Bloomberg BNA in conjunction with the American Intellectual Property Law Association, and updated annually. Mr. Hogan has also been a speaker at meetings of INTA; the South by Southwest (SXSW) Interactive Conference in Austin, Texas; the American Bar Association Section of Intellectual Property Law; and Comic-Con San Diego on entertainment law issues as part of the “Comic Book Law School” program. He has also provided commentary on IP issues for CBS News, Bloomberg TV, and National Public Radio, and he has been quoted in publications such as The Wall Street Journal, The Washington Post, USA Today, Law360, Electronic Commerce & Law Report, The Recorder, and Managing Intellectual Property.

Mr. Hogan devotes significant time to assisting not-for-profit organizations with different issues. In 2008, the Meals on Wheels Association of America honored him with its “Friend of the Year Award” for his assistance to MOWAA’s efforts to end senior hunger, and in 2019, the Jewish National Fund honored Mr. Hogan and a Gibson Dunn team with the organization’s inaugural Presidential Award for their pro bono contributions. He has served on the Boards of Directors of the Meals on Wheels Association of America Foundation, the National Foundation to End Senior Hunger, and the Washington Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs, among others.

Mr. Hogan received his B.S.F.S., magna cum laude, from Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in 1994 in International Relations, Law, and Organization, Phi Beta Kappa with a European Studies Certificate. In 1999 he received his J.D., cum laude, from New York University School of Law, where he was Editor-in-Chief of The Commentator and Research and Writing Editor for the Moot Court Board. He is also an alumnus of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford University, where he spent the 1992-93 academic term as a visiting student.

Mr. Hogan is a member of the bars of New York, Connecticut, and the District of Columbia, and has been admitted to appear before the United States Supreme Court, the U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second Circuit, the Third Circuit, the Fourth Circuit, the Fifth Circuit, the Ninth Circuit, the D.C. Circuit and the Federal Circuit and the United States District Courts for the Southern, Eastern, and Northern Districts of New York, the District of Columbia, the District of Maryland, and the Eastern District of Texas.

of Science in Aerospace Engineering.

Justin Pierce
Partner
Venable LLP

Justin Pierce is co-chair of Venable's Intellectual Property Division. He has significant experience advising companies and their executives on how best to acquire, develop, and apply their intellectual property to achieve their business objectives. He has guided clients through a wide range of matters involving patent litigation, trademark and brand protection, anti-counterfeiting initiatives, copyright, design rights, trade secrets, and licensing. Mr. Pierce is also well versed in strategies for handling rights of publicity, domain name, and social media disputes, and he routinely engages in international government affairs work involving intellectual property.

Mr. Pierce's practice includes:

- Representing clients in litigation involving patents, trademarks, copyrights, and advertising claims in a variety of industries, including apparel, consumer goods, electronics, food and beverage, footwear, media, mobile device, pharmaceutical, software, and telecommunications. He has handled cases in U.S. federal courts and the U.S. International Trade Commission.
- Developing and implementing worldwide brand protection strategies for companies around the world, ranging from start-ups to multinational corporations. He regularly assists clients in identifying vulnerabilities in their business model and devising innovative solutions to protect their brands and content, and their company's reputation in the international marketplace.
- Working with regulatory and law enforcement agencies in the United States and abroad to address counterfeiting issues. He has helped brand owners recover substantial damages through enforcement actions and litigation aimed at high-value counterfeiters and worked with clients to facilitate the seizure and destruction of numerous counterfeit products.
- Working with clients to maximize and better leverage the value of their intellectual property through licensing and other transactions. He has managed complex intellectual property licensing on an international scale in matters dealing with patents, trademarks, and copyrights.
- Providing counsel regarding cross-border trade, customs, and outreach to foreign governments on intellectual property matters. He has worked with a number of U.S. agencies responsible for IP and trade enforcement issues on behalf of clients

Prior to joining Venable, Mr. Pierce served as an in-house counsel to a major multinational corporation for a number of years. In this role, he led a government relations initiative that enhanced company IP enforcement efforts in key markets around the world. This experience gave him substantial knowledge of the business and strategy issues that challenge executives and their in-house legal teams.

Mr. Pierce is also an inventor who currently holds a patent and a number of published applications dealing with mobile applications, augmented and virtual reality, gaming, and anti-counterfeiting technology.

Before law school, he served as an infantry officer in the U.S. Army, and attained the rank of captain.
